By Florence M. Trevino

The Environmental division at U.S. Army Garrison – Detroit Arsenal (USAG-DTA) participated in an “Earth Season Celebration” at Sienna Heights University in Adrian, Mich. This was Sienna Heights first Earth Day activity and approximately 200 people attended. A live band provided background music and there were plenty of displays, and activities.

Several display tables were set up with information about USAG – DTA Environmental Programs and Progress Reports. The displays were designed to show how the USAG –DTA is complying with Environmental requirements.

The displays generated plenty of interest and allowed an opportunity to communicate with local residents about how USAG-DTA is “going green.” Attendees who stopped by the display picked up free bookmarks, key chains, and posters all related to Earth Day. Overall the outreach program was a great opportunity for the Environmental Division at USAG-DTA.
